Blauparts is pleased to offer the Mahle Original engine air filter for the Audi A8 4.2L engine! Mahle is an Official O.E. air filter manufacturer and has been supplying air filters to the German automakers for years. Since the late 1920's Mahle has set the standard in filtration as Germany's premier automotive filter manufacturer. Mahle's continuous engineering and innovation is driven by performance. Mahle air filters use the latest generation in filter designs and state-of-the-art filter material.

Extend your Audi engine life and reduce maintenance costs with regular air filter changes. The engine air filter is responsible for the removal of dirt, particles, dust, and soot before entering the engines air intake system. This prevents accelerated internal engine wear or damage and sensitive electronic component damage.

Blauparts recommend replacing your Audi air filter once a year or every 30,000-40,000 miles, which ever occurs first. Vehicles that drive consistently down dirt or gravel roads should have the engine air filter replaced more frequently, such as 30,000 miles. Those spending more time on clean roads can change there engine air filter less frequently, such as 40,000. Also something to consider is engines such as the Audi A8 4.2L V8 ingest a higher volume of air into the intake system when compared to other small displacement engines. This gives more opportunity to dirty or clog the engines air filter. Larger displacement engines should have the air filter changed more frequently such as every 30,000 miles.
